

NA TODAY AGENTS

Description of role:

- NA Today hopes to truly represent the Australian region. As such, we have “agents” which act in their area to solicit content so that we can get content from all around the region.
- Each area agent will attend regular meetings in their area and have a good knowledge of members in their area.
- Most importantly, NA Today agents approach members in their area and ask them to submit content for the magazine. This is their primary and most important role.
- Suggested content can either be on the theme for that issue, or just anything related to NA recovery (experience, strength and hope). We are hoping each agent solicits approximately one article per issue.
- Articles can be maximum 800 words but anything up to that.
- We can also take other forms of content, such as artwork, song-lyrics and poems.
- As a guideline, we have found often members will promise to write something and then not come through. So, don't get disheartened, and try to ask many members (4 or 5), and expect one of these to come through issue.
- We would also like NA Today agents to represent the magazine to people in their area by announcing that the magazine is available, pointing people to the online subscriptions,
- Agents are of course welcome to provide input into the direction of the mag in any way they think might be helpful.
